DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Storey in view of Walker et al.

Storey teaches a fully integrated, on-line interactive frequency and award redemption program. Storey teaches that various manufacturers register with this system (identified as PRODUCT A, PRODUCT B, PRODUCT C, etc in the reference). When a user purchases an item from one of the manufacturers the system credits an account associated with the user with a certain amount of awards points based on a preprogrammed formula (column 5; lines 45-50).

Storey further teaches that the selection of available prizes (redeemable via awards points) is expanded by the merchants who join the program (column 2; lines 31-34). Examiner notes that it is inherent to this statement that upon joining the program companies condition the grant of a discount for a product from their company upon the purchase of a product from a different company.

Examiner notes that Storey fails to teach collecting cross-marketing revenue realized from the purchase of the original product and allocating a portion of that money to the company that provides the prize of cross-sell product.

Art Unit: 3627

Walker et al. teaches a method and apparatus for providing supplementary product sales to a customer at a customer terminal. In particular the system includes a reconciliation of money between a company associated with the primary product and the upsell product. In particular the upsell merchant is credited with funds in order to compensate them for the benefit received from the primary company (column 10; lines 30-50).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of Storey by allocating an reconciliation process as taught by Walker et al. in order for a secondary merchant to receive compensation for offering an award to a customer of the primary merchant.

Conclusion

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-26 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

Art Unit: 3627
